

I would like to distribute an organic cookie. If I buy the cookie from a certified organic company unwrapped, and I then package and label it, is it okay to put "organic" on the label? My company is not certified organic.

No. Certification of the product does not pass to you. You also must apply for and obtain certification as a handler under the NOP regulations. You are handling an opened product, repackaging and labeling it as organic. You must get certified.
